- 25X1X 1. The Chinese Communists are placing considerable stress on the district governments which fall under the jurisdiction of the hsien (see [REDACTED]). These district governmental units serve as the basic administrative organs of the Chinese Communists for the execution of their policies and each is divided into the following eight sections: General Affairs, Civil Administration, Industries, Education, Public Safety, Propaganda, Fuel and Foodstuffs, and Military Equipment Council.
- 25X1A 2. To assist the district government in the administration of district affairs, the following political groups are organized:
 - (1) A headquarters unit, which directs the activities of "Special Political Work Groups".
 - (2) A farmers' association, which aids the district government in the class struggle.
 - (3) A women's association, which engages in propaganda work and makes and repairs military uniforms.
 - (4) A youth unit, which engages in anti-espionage activities, guard duty, and the inspection of travelers.
 - (5) An "eavesdropping" unit, whose members "eavesdrop" on the conversations of the people in the district and check on the rumors circulating there.
 - (6) A food inspection unit, which checks on the foodstuffs of the people.
 - (7) A stretcher-bearer unit, which carries the wounded from the battlefield.
 - (8) A "Green Shirt" unit, which is a women's spy group.
 - (9) A "Red Shirt" unit, composed of youths organized into auxiliary units to be used in time of war.
 - 25X1X (10) [REDACTED] (The actual existence of such units has not been established.)
 - A "Black Leg" unit, similar to the "Red Shirt" unit.
